

The Displays

The Heritage Centre, located in the old St George's RC church, preserves and displays the history of Marham. Displays of photographs and text provide insights into the history of the operational life of Marham, its equipment and people. Individual items reflect events, key periods in Marham and RAF history, and the personal triumphs and tragedies of those who served at Marham.

Visit the AHC and find out more about:

- The night battle against German airships
- Bomber Command aircraft and aircrew
- How Marham's Mosquitoes disrupted Hitler's birthday party!
- The Cold War nuclear stand-off with the Warsaw Pact
- How Marham developed the role of air-to-air refuelling
- The role of the Victor tankers in the Falklands Conflict
- How a 50-year old aircraft (Canberra PR.9) remained a essential reconnaissance asset
- Tornado operations from the Gulf War to Afghanistan
- Next generation combat with the F-35
- and much more!

"The volunteer staff provide insights into the history and the equipment."

Memorial Garden

The memorial wall was built with bricks reclaimed from the upgrade to No.3 hangar. The wall features slate plaques sponsored by individuals in memory of family members who served at Marham and is a place of quiet contemplation. Contact us for details on how to request a plaque.

In the Memorial Garden there is also the RAF Marham War Memorial, whose centrepiece is a propeller blade from a Short Stirling.

The Archive

The Marham AHC holds a comprehensive archive of photographs and documents covering the Station's history. This can be accessed by researchers through pre-arranged visits. It is also used by the AHC team to respond to questions relating to people who served at Marham. We are always interested in copying or acquiring information relating to Marham.
